

What is Claimed:

We claim:

1. A system and method for providing an intermediary between a company's administrative and management staff and its shareholders which is able to provide secure data access , collection, analysis, reporting and notification autonomously or by way of a human expert(s) acting on behalf of the intermediary so as to securely monitor and evaluate internal activities and practices and adherence to guidelines governing particular actions within the company.